OUTBACK STATIONS

So what's life really like when next door is 500 kilometres away, and mustering livestock in their tens of thousands, backbreaking physical labour, and dealing with extreme heat and long hours is all in a day's work? And why would these tough stockmen and women not have it any other way? Bestselling author Evan McHugh gets behind the wheel of his four-wheel drive to find out. Given special access to these properties, Evan goes behind the scenes at Adria Downs in the dead heart of Central Australia, helps drove cattle from the air at Wave Hill and gets a lesson in trapping dingoes at the remote Commonwealth Hill station. Following in the footsteps of the pioneering greats, Evan reveals the fascinating history of these outback stations, and what it takes to work on one today.

MELBOURNE BY MENU

Acclaimed food writer Rita Erlich charts Melbourne's restaurant scene during the eighties in a fascinating collection of menus, interviews, essays and recipes. Melbourne by Menu describes an era in which much of Melbourne's reputation as a world food capital was forged. Coinciding with the State Library of Victoria's Gusto! exhibition which opens on 3 August, Melbourne by Menu captures a decade of invention and imagination, of great change and challenge; where palates shifted away from a French fine-dining focus to incorporate modern Australian, Asian and Italian influences. A former editor of The Age Good Food Guide and long-time restaurant reviewer, Rita Erlich shares her expert knowledge of Melbourne dining during this important culinary decade.
